Overview

Comprised of top professionals who understand the attacker mindset, the Rapid7 Global Services team helps organizations accelerate security improvement through industry-leading methodologies and risk prioritization to reduce cyber-attack vulnerabilities.

Program Assessment & Development Services

A security program that lacks a strategic direction or has not undergone regular review can decrease the effectiveness of security investments and impact your ability to successfully detect and respond to security incidents. Avoid these pitfalls with our Program Assessment & Development Services, which provide access to a team of experts with extensive experience in information security program assessment, development, and management. Rapid7's deep experience building and managing security programs also enables us to work with organizational leaders to drive executive alignment.

- Cyber Security Maturity Assessment is an operational security evaluation that provides you with an understanding of your current security posture and offers tactical and strategic direction to further develop and strengthen your security program. The assessment focuses on specific controls that protect critical assets, infrastructure, and information and can be aligned to a variety of security frameworks or compliance and regulatory needs.
- Security Program Development assists in the development of specific facets of your security program and is designed to help you understand, manage, and monitor success. Rapid7 provides recommendations on the people, processes, and technology needed to effectively run in-house security programs and can focus on specific needs such as vulnerability management, security policy, security metrics, and more. You'll receive relevant, actionable, and sustainable advice that aligns with your needs and drives measurable improvement.

Penetration Testing Services

Having one of our offensive security experts conduct a penetration test is a valuable way to test your defenses and uncover security weaknesses from the perspective of a motivated attacker. Penetration tests can also help meet compliance requirements such as PCI-DSS and comply with best practices, such as OWASP. To take this service to the next level, Rapid7 can deliver recommendations for defense and strategies for eliminating persistent security blind spots.

- Penetration Testing includes network, mobile, application, wireless, social engineering and boutique engagements that demonstrate the security level of key systems and infrastructure.
- Security Program Maturity Testing goes beyond the limitations of automated scanning to deliver insight into programmatic security issues, including identification and guidance on root cause solutions.

Incident Response Services

The number of cyber-attacks is steadily climbing. Make sure you know how to properly investigate an incident before disaster strikes. Rapid7 offers a way to assess current response capabilities via a trusted third party; we'll compare your program to industry best practices and highlight areas of strength and weakness with guidance on prioritization, technical response, and communication.

Rapid7 can also assist organizations that lack the resources (both in terms of personnel and technology) to keep the IR function in house. In these cases, an external IR team can provide the experience and expertise needed to accelerate incident investigation and containment.

- Incident Response Program Development increases readiness to efficiently respond to security incidents. Our team will deliver sustainable recommendations on people, processes, and technology to minimize exposure in the event of a breach. Rapid7 can simulate an incident response scenario, as well as create a roadmap that details your current and future state with actionable steps to achieve program goals.

- Incident Response Services involve coordination between Rapid7 Services and in-house teams. Our experienced, industry-leading experts can work with you for all stages of incident response: from analysis and detection through containment, remediation, and cleanup. You'll have a single point of contact responsible for coordinating, communicating, and reporting on all aspects of incident response. Flexible retainer agreements are available.

Security Awareness Training

How well does your team understand security risk? Our Security Awareness curricula combines learning theory and subject matter expertise to deliver an online course that is informative and compelling. The objective is for employees to recognize the value of different types of information, understand the risks to this information, and behave proactively to protect it in their everyday work.

- Security Awareness Training follows a curriculum that is engaging, informative, and compelling. Staff receive key security learnings on malware, social engineering, passwords, mobile devices, email, physical security, phishing, and security while traveling.

Product Deployment and Managed Services

Rapid7 has skilled resources ready to help you get the most out of your product investments. Whether you need deployment assistance, help running the software, technical support, or expert guidance on your overall security program, we are here to assist.

Rapid7's Managed Services team helps you leverage your security program investment by handling the operational requirements for you. Our vulnerability management services offer regular assessments and concise reporting, which supports your organization's higher productivity and saves you time and money.

Product Training and Certification

Learn how to get the most out of your powerful Rapid7 products. Our experienced trainers teach essential product deployment, administration, and operation skills. To make learning even more accessible, our courses are offered in the Rapid7 classroom, on-site at your facility, or via webinar.

Rapid7 also offers product certifications, designed to represent a proven level of knowledge and use of Rapid7's products. Certifications help our customers ensure that employees are best prepared to install, configure and operate their Rapid7 solutions. Certifications also help hiring managers identify prospective employees that will help drive to greater productivity in a shorter amount of time.
